

Eggnog the Christmas Frog

By Chaplain Paul 193 Revised by Chat GPT Dec 25 2024

One very cold and snowy day in December, the pond froze over with a thick sheet of ice. One little frog, unsure of what to do, decided to venture into the woods to see what he could find.

As the little frog hopped through the trees, he came upon a house on the edge of the woods. The house was beautifully decorated with twinkling Christmas lights and ornaments. The little frog was in awe, for he had never seen such a sight before. It was the most beautiful thing he had ever encountered. Feeling curious and a little cold, the frog decided to spend the night in the barn nearby. Nestling into the warm hay with the chickens and two cows, he quickly fell asleep.

Early the next morning, a little girl ran out to the barn. She scooped up some hay and brought it into the house where her family was setting up their Nativity Scene. They carefully arranged the figures of baby Yeshua, Mary, Joseph, lambs, cows, and three Wise Men, creating a scene of serene beauty.

While this was happening, the little frog awoke and decided to explore. Hopping into the house unnoticed, he found himself right in the middle of the Nativity Scene! The little frog looked around, amazed by the glowing lights and the warmth of the family's love.

Then something extraordinary happened. As the family gathered around and began singing "Silent Night," they noticed the little frog sitting contentedly among the figures. At first, they were surprised, but soon they were delighted. They decided to name him "Eggnog the Christmas Frog." From that moment on, Eggnog became a beloved part of their Christmas tradition.

Eggnog stayed with the family through the winter, enjoying the cozy warmth of the house. When spring finally arrived, he returned to his home in the pond. But every Christmas after that, Eggnog would return to the house to take his place in the Nativity Scene, bringing joy and wonder to the family year after year.
